REMOVAL NOTICE.

Finding our present quarters entirely too small for our business, we will move to the room recently used by the Bowling Alley, Court House Square, on and after Tuesday, May 1st. It is our aim to have the most complete Shoe Store in the City. We have added greatly to our present line, and feel justified in saying that any and all who will inspect our different lines will bear us out in our assertions.

MATTERS MATRIMONIAL.

The Wedding Bells, Announcements, Cupid's Mischief.

The marriage of Mr. Clay Cooper and Miss Anna May Petry, both of Mt. Sterling, will occur on June 5th.

The engagement of Mr. Warren Bacon, of this city, and Miss Fannie Kehoe, of Flemingsburg, has been an open secret among their intimate friends for several weeks. The marriage, which will be a church affair, will occur at Flemingsburg the latter part of May. Mr. Bacon is a splendid young business man of this city, and his fiancée is a lovely daughter of Dr. Kehoe.

Mr. W. H. Buntin and Miss Virginia Gilpin and Mr. Luther Liggett and Miss Sophia, all of Bramblett, Nicholas county, spent several hours in Paris Wednesday afternoon, en route to Lexington, where they were married in a double wedding ceremony at the Phoenix Hotel. The brides are sisters and are lovely girls. The grooms are worthy young farmers.

The marriage of Dr. Edward Muir and Miss Pearl Kenney will be solemnized at Antioch Church on Thursday evening, June 14th, at eight o'clock. Dr. Muir is a prominent physician of Fayette, and a brother of Mrs. A. M. Gutzeit, of this city. The prospective bride is a most estimable young lady, the daughter of Mrs. Smith Kenney, of Hutchinson precinct. Dr. Wm. Kenney, of this city, will give the bride away, and the attendants will be Misses Mattie Nichols, Nannie Kenney, Bessie Ashurst and Julia Miller, and Messrs. Claude Spears, John Alexander, Will Muir, (of St. Louis), and Dr. Carl Wilcott.

BUCK FREEMAN wishes to notify his patrons and the public that his barber shop will be open until twelve o'clock Saturday night, but will be closed on Sunday morning.

Smallpox Situation.

THE NEWS assures the people living in the country and those living in Millersburg, North Middletown and other surrounding towns that there is not a known case of smallpox in Paris.

The Health Officer, Dr. John Bowen, informs THE NEWS that those cases of smallpox at the pest house, a mile from town, are under splendid control. Several patients were discharged this week.

People who wish to come to Paris are positively in NO DANGER. There is no smallpox IN PARIS.

Beautiful Scenery.

The scenery up Stoner never was more beautiful than it is just now, and a ten mile trip on the electric launch "Kentucky" makes a most delightful bit of recreation. Many middle aged married people are making the trip, and a number of family parties have found the launch quite a pleasure.

The launch leaves the landing every hour, and will take fishermen up Stoner and then return for them. Several parties of young folks have been up Stoner this week.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Owing to the many exaggerated reports and rumors regarding the epidemic in Paris and vicinity, I feel it my duty in my official capacity to make a true statement as to its status. The disease is and has been almost exclusively confined to the colored race. Every precaution necessary to prevent its spread was promptly taken and wherever there was a case developed the parties were immediately conveyed to the pest house and the premises and buildings from whence the patients were taken have been disinfected. The disease, I believe, is now under control. There is not one new case in the City limits, and I honestly believe we are in better sanitary condition to-day than most of the surrounding cities and towns. I deem it but simple justice to the commercial interests of our citizens of Paris to make this statement and to say to those in the country, do not give credence to mere rumors, without foundation, many of which are afloat for the purpose of turning trade from this City to the benefit of other cities for mere mercenary purposes.

Respectfully,
W. M. PURNELL,
Judge Bourbon County Court.
(NOTE—Paris papers copy.)

Change of Venue Granted.

Judge Cantrill on Wednesday granted a change of venue to Scott county for the trial of the prisoners charged with complicity in the assassination of Gov. Goebel. The council for the defense asked that the trials be held in Bourbon county, but Judge Cantrill selected Scott, saying that the docket in Bourbon was already large and would require a three-weeks' term of court.

The trials will probably be held during the regular May term at Georgetown or at a special term which could begin July 2d or 10th. There will be ninety-four witnesses for the prosecution.

Culton did not ask for a change of venue.

THE following Enumerators of Bourbon county have been appointed by Supervisor Bainbridge to take the census in June:

WINNERS AND LOSERS.

The man who quits at the first rebuff
Is one of the men who fail;
And the man who deems three efforts
Enough
Is one of the men who fail!
The man who believes, down in his heart,
That he never was born to sway,
Or to go to the front in a leading part—
To rise over the crowd, some day—
Is one of the men who fail!
The man who labors but for himself
Is one of the men who fail;
No matter how vast his piles of pelf,
He is one of the men who fail!
The man who has never enjoyed the thrill
That follows a kindness shown
Has never won, and he never will—
Though the earth were all his own,
He would still be doomed to fail!
The man who never gives up is one
Of the "lucky men" that win,
Who believes that his best has never been Done
Is one of the men that win;
The man who has faith in himself and stands
Forever ready to try
Whatever men do with heads or with hands
Will be numbered, by and by,
As one of the men that win.
The man who praises wherever he can
Is one of the men that win;
Who raises the hope of his fellow man
Is one of the men that win;
A man may shiver and starve, alone,
And die at the foot of the hill;
But if he has loved and if he has known
What a child's love is he still
Is one of the men that win!

All along the line from right to left there ran the cross-country road connecting the broader highway, from Malate to San Rafael and Paranaque on the west, and from Paco by way of Singalong to Pasay. In front of the right wing all was swamp, morass or rice fields. In front of the left wing all was dense, dense bamboo and jungle, save where the broad, straight roadway led on past Block House 13, or the narrower cart track stretched southward, over-arched in places by spreading branches, and commanded at its narrowest path by the swarm of dusky fighters in Block House 14. A year before the blue shirts stormed these forest strongholds from the south, and took them from the troops of Spain. Now they were compelled to turn and storm them from the north; for, just as Stanley Armstrong said at San Francisco, the Filipinos had turned upon their ally and would-be friend. Aguinaldo had bearded Uncle Sam.

And while the volunteers and regulars to the right could only remain in support, it fell to the lot of the left wing of this brave brigade to assault in almost impenetrable position an enemy armed with magazine rifles or breech loaders, and entirely at home. The bugles rang the signal; the officers in silence took their station, and, stepping into the narrow pathways through the jungle, crouching along the roadways or crashing through the stiff bamboo, the blue shirts drove ahead. Two, three minutes and their purpose seemed undiscovered. Then suddenly Block House 14 blazed with fire and a storm of bullets swept the road. The earthworks in the thick to the right and left seemed to be crowded with a running flame; and down on their faces fell the foremost soldiers, their gallant leader shot through and through, plunging headlong, yet in his dying agony waving his surviving men to get to cover. Vengefully now the "Grays" opened in reply to Remington and Mauser. The blue-shirts struggled inch by inch through the network of bamboo. Still the storm swept up the roadway, and no man could hope to face it and live. But, little by little, the low-aimed, steady volleys, driven in by squad and section through the canebrake, or by company and platoon across the westward swamps, told on the nerve and discipline of the little brown men in the bamboo. Their shots flew swift, but wild and higher. Then a daring lad, in the rough field uniform of a subaltern of infantry, sprang like a cat into the fire-flashing lane, and revolver in hand and a squad of devoted fellows at his heels, dashed straight at the wooden walls ahead. In frantic haste the occupants blazed shot after shot upon him and his heroic followers. One after another three went down; but in another instant, the lieutenant leading, they reached the block house and darted through the open doorway, the last of its garrison fleeing before such unheard-of daring and determination. And then came the rush of comrades cheering down the lane, tumbling over the earthworks and the luckless gang that, still crouching there, held to their position, and all the southward leading road was ours.

But, over along the next lane, a parallel track through the timber, there had been as stern a check; and the fury of the fire from the trenches in the thickets forced brave men to cover and dropped others in their tracks. "By God, we must have it!" almost screamed a tall captain, pointing with his sword to the flashing block house half hidden in the trees. "Hear those fellows on the other road? Don't let them beat us. Come on, lads," and out he darted into the open, an instant target for a score of Mausers. Out, too, leaped half a dozen men, one a tall, lithe, superbly built young athlete, with a face aflame with resolution and rage of battle. Out leaped Billy Gray from the corner of the crossroad, and cheering madly, called on others to follow. Down went the captain, shot through the knee. Down went the near-most man, the tall youth who was first to follow. Down went a brawny sergeant, who had stopped to raise his fallen captain; but on swept a score of others while the bamboo blazed with the fierce volleying of the Grays. Forward in scores now, yelling like Apaches, rushed the regulars; and somehow, he never just knew how it happened, Gray found himself a moment later straddling an old field gun in a whirl of dust and dirt and smoke and cheers, was conscious of something wet and warm streaming down his side, and of being tenderly lifted from his perch by brawny, blue-sleeved arms, given a sip from a canteen, and then, half-led, half-supported back to where the surgeon was already kneeling by the tall young soldier on whose brow the last dew was settling, on whose fine, clear-cut face the shadow of the death angel's wings was already traced. The poor fellow's eyes opened wearily as he sipped the stimulant pressed upon him by eager, sympathetic hands, and glanced slowly about as though in search of some familiar face; and so they fell on those of Billy Gray, who, forgetful for the moment of his own hurt, threw himself by the stranger's side and seized his clammy hand. A half smile flitted over the pale face, the other hand groped at the breast of his blue shirt and slowly drew forth a packet, stained and dripping with the blood that welled slowly from a shot-hole in the broad white breast. "Give to—Gen. Drayton—promise," he gasped, and pushed it painfully toward Billy Gray. Then the brave eyes closed, the weary head fell back; and Gray, staring as though in stupefaction into the placid face, found himself drooping, too, growing dizzy and faint and reeling, but still holding on to his trust.

"Don't some of you know him?" asked the surgeon. "He's past helping now, poor lad. Here, you drink this, Billy," and he placed a little silver cup at Gray's pallid lips.

"He came a-runnin' from over at Block House 12 with a note from division headquarters just as we went in," said a veteran sergeant, drawing the back of a powder-stained hand across his dripping forehead, then respectfully stepping back as a young officer bent down and glanced at Gray.

"Much hurt, Billy, old man? No? Thank God for that! Look at who? Where? Why, God in Heaven, it's Pat Latrobe! Oh, Pat! Pat! dear old boy—has it come to this!"

CHAPTER XVII.

In the fortnight of incessant action that followed the mad attack of that starlit Sunday morning, there was no place for Billy Gray. Sorely wounded, yet envied by many a fellow soldier for the glowing words in which the brigade commander praised his conduct and urged his brevet, the boy had been carried back to the great reserve hospital at Malate. The breezy wards were filled with sick and wounded, and certain of the rooms of the old convent once used for study and recitation had been set apart for officers. There were three cots in the one to which they bore him, and two were already occupied. Even in his pain and weakness he could hardly suppress a cry of dismay; for there, with his arm bandaged and in splints, his face white from loss of blood, lay Stanley Armstrong. Time and again the boy's heart and conscience had rebuked him for the estrangement that had arisen between him and this man who had proved his best friend. Time and again he had promised himself that he would strive to win back that friendship; but well he knew that first he must reinstate himself in Armstrong's respect; and how could he hope for that so long as he surrendered to the fascinations that kept him dangling about the dainty skirts of Witekie Garrison? Oddly enough, the boy had hardly bothered his head with any thought of what Frank Garrison might think of his attentions or devotions, whatever they could be called, to this very captivating and capricious helpmate. When a husband is so overwhelmed with other cares or considerations that he never sees his wife from morn till night, society seems to correspondingly lose sight of him. Down in the depths of his heart the boy was ashamed of himself. He never heard Armstrong mentioned that he did not wince. He knew and she knew that, coming suddenly upon them as Armstrong had that tropic night on the Queen, he must have heard her words, must have realized that some compact or understanding existed between them, which neither Gray nor Mrs. Frank could palliate or explain. It had not needed that episode to tell her that Armstrong held her in contempt; and yet, when they chanced to meet, she could smile up into his eyes as beamingly, as guilelessly, as though no shadow of sin had ever darkened her winsome face. But not so Gray. He moaned in secret over the loss of a strong man's confidence and esteem. He longed to find a way to win it back. He had even thought to go to the colonel with his trouble, make a clean breast of it, tell him the truth—that he had fallen deeply, as it was possible for him to fall, in love with Amy Lawrence; had hoped his love was returned; had found it was not—that she had only a frank, friendly, kindly interest in him; and that, wounded and stung, he had fretted himself into a fever at Honolulu, aided by Canker's aspersions, and then—well—any man is liable, said Billy to himself, to get smitten with a woman who tenderly and skillfully nurses him day after day; and that's just what Witekie Garrison did. But somehow the opportunity to tell him never seemed to come; and now, now that Armstrong and himself were thus thrown together with the prospect of being in the same room day and night for the best of the month, a third officer, a stranger, lay there, too, and in his presence or hearing any confidences would be impossible, even if Armstrong encouraged them, which he probably would not. In this embarassment Billy's wish was that the colonel were fifty miles away. It was fate and a hard one, thought he, that brought him there—an ever-present reproach. It was luck of the worst kind that they should be confronted under such circumstances, since neither could retreat. He submitted in anxious silence to the keen, quick examination of the skillful surgeon in charge and to the redressing of his wound. He could have been proud and happy but for that shadow on his life, of which Armstrong's presence would so constantly remind him. He could not even think how his dear old dragon daddy would rejoice in the congratulations that would surely greet him when the story of the brave dash of the—teenth, Billy among the foremost, should reach the states. He could not even dream how it might affect her—Amy Lawrence. He was beginning to be ashamed now in this presence to think how that other—how Margaret Garrison might be impressed, forgetting that, to the army girl who has lived long years on the frontier, tales of heroism are the rule, not the exception. He wondered how long it could be before she would come to him to bring him comfort. Surely by this time she knew that he had been seriously, painfully wounded. He did not know, however, that at the very first sound of battle Frost had bundled the sisters aboard his launch and steamed away to the transports. Yet, what comfort could her visit bring to him with that stern censor lying there, seeing and hearing all? Billy Gray that Monday night could almost have wished that Armstrong's slumber might be eternal, never dreaming that before a second Monday should come he would thank heaven with grateful heart for Armstrong's presence, vigilance and intervention.

In three days the colonel was able to sit up. Within the week he was permitted to take air and exercise in the spacious court of the old college, his sword arm in its sling. But Gray and the young officer of volunteers were too seriously wounded to leave their pillows. The—teenth had occupied a new line far south of the old one; but, at one time, several of Billy's brother officers had dropped in to see him and tell him regimental news; and one of them, the young West Pointer who had broken down at sight of the dying face that stirring Sunday morning, told him of Latrobe's soldier funeral and of Gen. Drayton's presence and speechless grief; and Billy's hand groped beneath the pillow for that little blood-stained packet still undelivered. He had promptly caused the information to be conveyed to the veteran commander that it was his own lost nephew who had died his soldier death in front of the firing line; but the packet still remained in his hands; and even before the tiny thermometer confirmed his views, the keen eye of the surgeon saw that something had heightened Billy's fever that day; and so, when just at sunset there came driving into the court the most stately equipage in all Manila, and Mrs. Garrison fluttered up the broad stairway and confidently asked to be announced to Mr. Gray, the steward in charge of the door was very, very sorry, but—the doctor had given instructions that no more visitors should see the young gentleman that day. Mrs. Frank smiled indulgently, and asked for the doctor himself, and beamed on him with all her witchery and begged for just a few words; but the suave, placid, yet impenetrable doctor said he, too, was sorry—sorry that Mr. Gray was not able to see anyone else, but such was the case. Mrs. Garrison said she thought if Mr. Gray knew that it was—perhaps Dr. Frank didn't know it was she who had nursed Mr. Gray so assiduously at Honolulu. Dr. Frank did know that and more; but he did not say so; neither did he yield. There were tears in her eyes as she sprang into her carriage again; but they were tears of anger and defeat. She dashed then away the very next instant and smiled joy and congratulation, even adulation, at sight of the tall, stalwart officer, his arm in a sling, who stood the center of a staring group as her carriage flashed by. She would have ordered stop; but while the rest of the party had gazed as they lifted their eyes, Armstrong's uninjured hand performed its duty, his cap had been lifted with the others, but not so much as a glance went her way; and Margaret Garrison, bitter in spirit, drove on down past the old enarlet to her luxurious quarters where Nita, a piteous shadow of the "sweet girl graduate" of the year before, was awaiting her coming. With the insurgents' retreat and the advance of the American lines there had been a gradual return of the refugees among the transports; and Frost had finally brought his birdling back to shore; but Nita dare not drive, she said, for fear of again seeing those stern, reproachful eyes. The guard at the gate had received orders to admit no more of the rank and file, even when they came as messengers; and so the child was safe, said Margaret. As for herself, she must drive, she must see Will—

But the instant she reentered the house Mrs. Garrison knew that during her brief absence some new trouble had come. Good heavens, could she never leave Nita's side that harm did not befall her! At the head of the broad flight of stairs stood her brother-in-law, a black frown on his brow.

"Go in and do what you can for her," he briefly said. "I thought—she'd be glad to know that—that fellow would trouble her no more."

"That fellow?" she gasped. "You mean—"

"I mean—Yes—Latrobe—killed and buried a whole week ago."

"And you told her!" she cried clinching her little hands in impotent wrath. "You—brute!"

AN INFANT PRODIGY.

Lawrence Attracted the Attention of Garrick, Foote, Burke and Sheridan.

Raphael, with genius at his back, did not come to maturity so quickly, nor did Rubens, triumphant at Antwerp, hold popular applause so long; for Lawrence kept his admiring public to the last, and was something of a wonder both as man and boy. His whole career was brilliant, yet not through intrinsic force; his art was successful without being great; he was honored and praised down to his grave, and yet he possessed no genius. There are men who achieve popular success without genius. Lawrence was one of them.

The father was a man of some birth and education, but he had what is called "the poetic temperament," and never got on very well in the world. He was at different times a barrister without a brief, an actor without a part, a keeper of the White Lion inn at Devizes without guests enough to make it pay. When young Lawrence was three years old his father made a change of base and moved into the black bear inn. It was here that the boy was placed upon a table to recite Shakespeare for the guests. Here also he developed a wonderful gift of making portraits in pastel of the passing public. A guest could have a portrait painted while he waited, and the speed of the artist was not less wonderful than his age. The duchess of Devonshire and Lord and Lady Kenyon were among his early sitters, and the record is preserved that Lady Kenyon's likeness was drawn in profile because, as the child artist declared, "her face was not straight." In a short time he had attracted the attention of Garrick, Foote, Wilkes, Burke, Sheridan and Johnson, and his father began traveling with him about the neighboring country and exhibiting him as one of the wonders of the age.—Century.

PRISON BABIES.

The Little Newcomers Always Create a Flutter of Excitement in Their Gloomy Birthplaces.

Very few people outside official circles know what a large number of babies are born every year in the infirmaries of prisons and penitentiaries, the little people always causing quite a flutter of attentiveness and excitement among female warders and prisoners alike.

Of course, there is a vast difference in prisoners, and sometimes the person least attentive to the prison baby is the mother herself; but, on the other hand, the general body of the women prisoners make the most pathetic efforts, by means of all manner of trifling scraps and odds and ends, to fabricate articles of wear and ornament for the out-of-place stranger. Quite three-fourths of the women volunteer to tend it, and it is often the case that the most refractory and difficult of the prisoners soften and greatly alter by being allowed to do little things for it; indeed, it acts throughout like a veritable ray of sunshine among the whole of the poor prisoners, who generally manage to get themselves into great good humor by suggesting as volubly as the prison rules will permit fantastic names for the child. Within a certain period of their birth these children are taken away from the mother and are tended elsewhere with the utmost care and humanity.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Castle Campbell.

There are few more picturesque spots in Scotland than Dollar Glen, and no more interesting ruin anywhere than the grim old castle of the Campbells, known in the olden time as Castle Gloom. Once visited, the castle will never be forgotten. It is not only beautiful for situation, adding might to the majesty of the everlasting hills, but it abounds with weird traditions that give the added charm of romance. To visit the glen by moonlight and to see the bare walls of the castle gleaming white through the trees, is to be filled with a mysterious feeling of awe, that is intensified by the rushing of the water in the deep, black chasms beneath. It is a scene to uplift the soul—a glimpse of nature in her wildest and most impressive mood—and it is not surprising that every year an increasing number of visitors find their way to this most beautiful part of the Ochils.—Scottish American.

An Enterprising Merchant.

A town which has played its part in history for more than a hundred years ought to be forgiven for being a little sleepy by this time, although its newer neighbors may be inclined to poke fun at it. It is told that a Bladensburg merchant was dozing in his store one day, when a little girl came in with a pitcher and asked for a quart of molasses. The merchant yawned, stretched himself, half opened his eyes, and then said, in an injured tone: "Well, ain't there nobody who sells molasses in Bladensburg but me?" —Youth's Companion.

FIFTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

Summary of Leading Events.

Washington, April 26.—Senate—Almost the entire session was devoted to consideration of the right of Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia, to retain his seat in the senate. The case went over without action.

House—The post office appropriation bill was passed, as was also a bill to increase the salary of the director of the census to $7,500 and the salaries of supervisors of census by two per cent. of the amount received by their enumerators. The final conference report on the Hawaiian government bill was presented, but not acted upon owing to the absence of a quorum.

Washington, April 27.—Senate—The senate voted upon the resolution declaring Nathan B. Scott to be entitled to his seat in the senate from West Virginia. The number of votes in the negative was only three. The Alaska and cotton claims bills took up the rest of the day.

House—All records were beaten by the passage of 91 private pension bills. Among them was one to pension at the rate of $40 a month the widow of the late Col. John M. Stotsenberg, of the 1st Nebraska, who was killed in the Philippines. The conference report on the Hawaiian government was adopted and now goes to the president.

Washington, April 28.—Senate—Mr. Pettigrew, of South Dakota, offered a resolution expressing sympathy for the Boers. Without debate it was referred to the committee on foreign relations by a vote of 31 to 11. As the vote disclosed the absence of a quorum, an effort was made to secure one, but it was unsuccessful, and the senate adjourned.

House—Bills to recognize the services of Lieut. Newcomb and the officers and men of the revenue cutter Hudson, which rescued the torpedo boat Winslow at Cardenas, Cuba, by conferring gold and silver medals upon them, and to retire Capt. Hodgson, of the revenue cutter Hugh McCulloch, for meritorious services, were passed. Francis R. Lassiter, who succeeds the late Sidney Epes as a representative from the Fourth Virginia district, was sworn in.

Washington, April 30.—Senate—A motion to take up the resolution expressing sympathy for the Boers was defeated by a vote of 29 to 20. The conference report on the joint resolution relating to the administration of civil affairs in Porto Rico and providing for the appointment of temporary officers on the island was agreed to. During the greater part of the session the Alaskan civil code bill was under consideration, but no progress was made.

House—The Lacey bill to enlarge the powers of the department of agriculture and to prohibit interstate commerce in game killed in violation of local laws was passed. The conference report on the joint resolution extending the tenure of military officers in Porto Rico was agreed to.

Washington, May 1.—Senate—All proposed amendments to the Alaskan civil code bill were withdrawn and the bill passed. The senate then took up the army appropriation bill and discussed it until adjournment. It carries an appropriation of $114,951,590.

House—The Nicaraguan canal bill was taken up, and occupied the entire session, as well as a night session. A powerful opposition to the measure was developed.

Washington, May 2.—Senate—Consideration of the army appropriation bill developed into a debate on the treatment of the volunteer soldiers sent to the Philippines that at times was very bitter. Just before adjournment a sharp colloquy occurred over the proposed consideration of the resolution to unseat Mr. Clark, of Montana, which indicated that the unanimous recommendation of the committee on privileges and elections will be sharply contested.

House—At the conclusion of the most stormy debate of the present session of congress, the house passed the Nicaragua canal bill by the overwhelming vote of 225 to 35. No other business was transacted.

LAST ON THE LIST.

The Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill Completed and Reported to the House.

Washington, May 2.—The sundry civil appropriation bill, the most important of the general supply bills, and the last on the list, was completed by the committee on appropriation Wednesday and reported by Chairman Cannon to the house. It carries $61,556,715, being $8,485,992 less than the estimates and $9,709,146 more than the appropriations for the current fiscal year. In addition to the amounts carried by the bill, contracts are authorized amounting to $4,437,500, including $3,275,000 for public buildings.

Worst Damage Done.

Houston, Tex., May 3.—The Brazos river is all over the bottoms at Hempstead and below, but the river is expected to begin falling soon. Below Hempstead the river continues to rise steadily, and the flats are rapidly being covered. The damage has probably all been done now. The Trinity bottoms are being rapidly depopulated on account of the flood coming down, and there will likely be no casualties.

The Concho rivers have spread over a large area, and the flood will strike the Colorado much reduced in volume.

Flood Damages Sportsmen's Resorts. Dallas, Tex., May 3.—The Trinity river flood swept away the levees of the Dallas Hunting and Fishing club, destroying two fine lakes and sportsmen's resorts 12 miles below this city. The grounds are overflowed completely, and many thousands of dollars' worth of property is destroyed.

Taken to the Penitentiary.

New Orleans, May 3.—J. L. Moyse, who married Bertha Warrick, of Dayton, O., while impersonating "Capt. Clarke," of the battle ship Texas, was taken to the Nashville penitentiary.

That Tired Feeling

Just as surely indicates that the blood is lacking in vitality and the elements of health as does the most obdurate humor that the vital fluid is full of impurities. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures that tired feeling by enriching and vitalizing the blood, creating a good appetite and invigorating every organ of the body.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I had that tired feeling all the time. Was as tired in the morning when I rose as I was when I went to bed. I took four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and it made me feel like a new man. I could work hard and not feel tired. I recommend Hood's to all who need a good medicine." A. P. CHARTER, Creston, Iowa.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. Get Hood's and only Hood's.

WAITED FOR ONE CENT.

Embarrassment of an Absent-Minded Purchaser at a Ninety-Nine Cent Store.

"I never felt so cheap in all my life," said Short, related in the Pittsburgh News, "as I did one day in a department store. I bought a book for 99 cents and while I was waiting for it a young woman, whose good opinion I valued, came up and we began to talk. The book was wrapped up and handed me by the girl at the counter and after a short while the young woman asked: 'Are you waiting for your change?'"

"I replied that I was, but, in fact, I hadn't been thinking of it. I wanted to talk to her and made that an excuse for staying. After the usual delay, when it had passed entirely out of my mind, the girl at the book counter stepped up and said: 'Here's your change, sir.'"

"And she held a bright new cent in her open hand so that the other girl saw it. I felt a chill at once and just because it appeared to the young woman that I had been waiting all that time for a cent. I got a reputation for closefistedness that is still sticking to me."

CULTON ON THE STAND

The Prisoner Applies for Bail and Testifies in His Own Behalf.

Highly Sensational Testimony, Implicating Henry Youtsey, Jim Howard and Others in the Assassination of Wm. Goebel.

Frankfort, Ky., May 3.—In the circuit court Wednesday morning Judge Cantrell heard arguments on both sides regarding the county to be chosen for a trial of the Goebel murder case, a change of venue having been granted Tuesday. The defense favored Bourbon, while the prosecution preferred either Woodford or Scott. All are in the same judicial district, as this county and the two latter adjoin this county. The judge finally named Scott county, of which Georgetown, sixty miles south of Cincinnati, is the county seat. The cases will be tried either at the regular May term, which convenes next Monday, or at a special term to be called July 2 or July 10.

Culton's attorneys announced that they would insist on offering evidence in the case of their client, and the defendant himself took the stand. He said he had never conspired with any of the defendants or any one else to kill Mr. Goebel and had nothing to do with the killing. He denied that he had said on the night of the assassination that he would bet $1,000 he could name the man who fired the shot. He said on the day after the assassination he was walking with Jim Howard, the feudist, in the state house yard, and said to Howard that he understood the shot was fired from the office of the secretary of state. Howard pointed to a window and called his attention to a particular point in it where a piece of paper was pasted up in it. "Well, what of that?" I asked. "Oh, you have got sense enough to understand, haven't you?" was the reply. He said Howard then took out of his pockets some rifle bullets and also some .45 pistol cartridges. Witness asked what he meant. Howard said, "Don't ask any more fool questions." The witness was evidently of the opinion that Howard fired the shot.

The witness said that Mr. Taylor gave him $123 to pay board of mountain men brought here as witnesses. Caleb Powers, George W. Long and others also gave him money for this purpose. Henry Youtsey came to witness several days after the assassination and asked where he was on the day of the murder. "I told him," the witness continued, "that I was up in the house lobby. Youtsey asked me how it would do for him to say he was there with me. I told Youtsey I was afraid he was going to get into trouble. Also that Grant Roberts wanted to see him. Roberts had missed his rifle and told me that he believed Youtsey had taken it. I told him he had better see Roberts and have a talk with him about it. I don't know where the rifle is now."

Witness said that he talked with Mr. Taylor shortly after the assassination. Mr. Taylor asked him to go to Youtsey and make him a proposition to leave the state. He said Taylor told him to tell Youtsey he would give him money enough to go anywhere if he would leave. Taylor did not specify what amount, but said he would give any reasonable sum. "I told him I would study about the matter, but did not promise to approach Youtsey about it. I also talked with the governor on two or three other occasions about it, but I never made the proposition to Youtsey. Taylor said he thought Youtsey was liable to get into trouble and to involve others if he remained here."

"At a meeting held in Caleb Powers' office about January 15 I presided, and the question of providing boarding places for all the contest witnesses was discussed. B. B. Burton pulled out a handful of cartridges and said, 'A few of these turned loose in the proper place would soon settle this contest.' Caleb Powers said that if any such talk as that was to be indulged in he would leave the meeting."

Culton had not finished his testimony when court adjourned. It is not known whether the commonwealth will introduce any proof.

The records in the cases the venue of which has been changed to Georgetown, Scott county, will be summoned there, and the prisoners, Powers, Davis, Whittaker, Youtsey and Combs, will also be summoned there next Monday. The Scott term begins there that day, but it is probable that the court will call a special term for the trial of these cases. It is generally believed that the special term will be fixed for a date in July.

Mafia Members Arrested.
Rome, May 2.—Forty members of the Mafia have been arrested at Palermo, Sicily. One offered violent resistance and fired upon the police. A great impression has been caused by the arrests, and it is expected that others will be made.

Spaniards Given More Time.
Washington, May 2.—The president has issued a proclamation extending for six months from April 11 the time allowed Spanish subjects in the Philippines to announce their allegiance in accordance with the treaty of Paris.

Princess of Wales Returns.
London, May 2.—The princess of Wales arrived in London from Copenhagen and met with an enthusiastic demonstration at the railroad station and while passing through the streets on her way to Marlborough house.

TWENTY AMERICANS KILLED.

The Garrison of Catubig, Island of Samar, Consisting of Thirty Men, Attacked by Rebels.

Manila, May 3.—The American garrison of Catubig, island of Samar, consisting of 30 men belonging to the 43d regiment, has been attacked by rebels. Twenty of the Americans were killed. The remainder were rescued. The Americans were quartered in the Catubig church, which the enemy, numbering several hundred men, surrounded and fiercely attacked. The Americans fought for two days and then the rebels managed to ignite the roof of the church and it burned away and finally fell upon those inside the edifice. The walls remained intact, however, and were used as a shelter by the besieged Americans for three days longer, the enemy attacking the building on all sides at once.

The Americans continued firing from the windows and doors of the church, and did great execution among the Filipinos. It is estimated that over 200 of the latter were killed, many dead bodies being removed from the scene of the fighting.

After five days' resistance by the Americans, a lieutenant and eight men arrived from Lasan and engaged the besiegers, who thereupon retired. The fortunate arrival of these reinforcements prevented the annihilation of the American force entrenched in the church, who had repeatedly declined to surrender when ordered to do so by the Filipinos.

The ten survivors were without food, had little water, and were exhausted when relieved. The fight has encouraged the Filipinos, who are now acting in an aggressive manner and threatening that section of the coast.

IN THE SUPREME COURT.

Arguments in the Kentucky Governorship Case Heard—The Court Adjourns Until May 14.

Washington, May 1.—Louis McQuown, attorney for J. C. W. Beckham, democratic governor of Kentucky, Monday filed his brief in the United States supreme court in the case involving the governorship of the state.

The argument in the Kentucky governorship case was begun in the United States supreme court at 12:30 Monday. The first presentation was made on behalf of Gov. Taylor, by Attorney Helm Bruce.

After Mr. Bruce finished Lawrence Maxwell, jr., and Lewis L. McQuown followed. The case went over until Tuesday.

Washington, May 2.—The supreme court resumed its hearing Tuesday in the Kentucky governorship case, lion W. O. Bradley, former governor of that state, being the only speaker. He appeared for Gov. Taylor, taking up first the claim of the opposition that Taylor had never possessed any title to the office. He continued that Taylor's title was as good as that of any man who had ever held the office.

When Gov. Bradley concluded the court adjourned until May 14. As the case was advanced for hearing on account of its importance and the necessity of a speedy decision in view of the anomalous condition of affairs now existing in Kentucky, it is believed the adjournment was had in order that the court might give its whole time to its determination.

CANAL BILL PASSED.

The Nicaragua Measure Favored By the House By an Overwhelming Majority.

Washington, May 3.—The house, at the conclusion of the most stormy debate of the present session of congress, passed the Nicaragua canal bill by the overwhelming vote of 225 to 35. All attempts to retain in the bill the language of the original bill for the fortification of the canal and to still further strengthen the language on that line were balked, and the victory of Mr. Hepburn and the committee was complete. A motion to recommitt the bill, with instructions to report back another bill leaving the selection of the route to the president, was buried under an adverse majority of 52 to 171.

AGUINALDO DEAD.

Such Is the Belief of His Friends, Who Have Many Reasons for Thinking So.

Manila, May 3.—Gen. Funston has discovered a rebel warehouse near Cabanatuan, province of New Egría, containing all the archives of the Malolos government. Aguinaldo's correspondence up to the time of his flight and most valuable historical matter. The belief is growing that Aguinaldo was killed by the Ingrotes. There is no proof that he has been active since Maj. Peyton C. March, of the 33d regiment, abandoned the chase after the Filipino leader in the Benquet mountains, although an insurgent officer who recently surrendered to Gen. Young says that the insurgent general Tinio holds this belief.

Ex-Senator Willey Dead.

Morgantown, W. Va., May 3.—Ex-United States Senator Waiman Thomas Willey, of West Virginia, died at his home here Wednesday of old age. Deceased was born in 1812, and was the author of the constitution of West Virginia.

Sympathetic Strike.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 3.—Two hundred and twenty car repairers, inspectors and blacksmiths and machinists of the Erie road struck Wednesday afternoon for sympathy with the Central's men.

LORD ROBERTS' PLAN.

He Expects to Completely Clear the Country of the Transvaalers.

President Kruger Issues a Proclamation Expelling British Subjects From the Transvaal—Latest From Mafeking.

London, May 3.—The immediate objective of Lord Roberts is to establish a line of British posts from one frontier of the Free State to the other at right angles with the railway, thus preventing Boer raids southward. It is essential, therefore, that the Boers should be expelled from the rugged Thaba N'Chu district and be forced to retire to Ladysbrand. As the result of the desultory firing Monday and Tuesday the Boers were pushed back a few miles, but nothing definite appears to have yet been attained. The Boers continue to follow their harassing tactics. One well-horsed commando, operating in the neighborhood of Sannas Post, interferes with the British convoys going from Bloemfontein to Thaba N'Chu. The enemy nearly captured a convoy Tuesday, but they were driven off after a brisk fight.

Preparations for an advance continue at Kimberley. Sir Alfred Milner has written to the mayor of Kimberley assuring him that the relief of Mafeking has not ceased to occupy his attention and that of the military authorities, and that nothing will be left undone to raise the siege at the earliest possible moment.

The British garrisons along the railway toward Warrenton have been strengthened and supplies are going forward. A mounted force has gone to Barkly West in consequence of the Boers having occupied Windsorton. A thousand Boers threaten the communications between Boshof and Kimberley.

Manila, chief of the Taungs, has informed the British that the Boers are preparing to resist their advance at Phikowani, 20 miles north of Warren.

A correspondent at Lorenzo Marques cabled Tuesday that a large part of the investing force at Mafeking had been withdrawn.

Gen. Buller continues quiet. The Boers assert that they are delaying an attack upon him in the hope that as the horses of the British will die of horse sickness.

According to a correspondent of the Daily Telegraph with Lord Roberts, President Kruger is again asking peace terms.

The departure of the Boer delegates from Holland to the United States, and what they have said of their purposes and hopes, draw attention to American views of the war. The Chronicle says: "The men who count in the United States are not likely to accept the views which Messrs. Fischer and Wessels intend to place before them."

A dispatch from Pretoria gives the text of President Kruger's proclamation expelling British subjects from the Transvaal. It says:

"As numerous burghers insist on the removal of the British, and as the government is desirous of complying with the wish of the burghers and others favorable to the republic, all Britishers residing in the district and town of Pretoria, and the Witwatersrand gold fields, must leave the state within 36 hours from noon, April 30. Exception will be made in the case of those obtaining special permits."

Thaba N'Chu, May 1.—Gen. Hamilton's division was engaged yesterday and to-day inflicting a passage northward. At Houtney the Boer front held a line of hills commanding the sides of the neck. The Canadians and Gordons attacked the hill to the left and the Shropshires and Marshall's horse, supported by a battery, also made an attack on the enemy, who finally fled, leaving many wounded, and the passage was cleared.

The Boers on the mountain are now shelling the outlying camp, necessitating removal to a safer place. The Boers have three guns on the hill to the eastward of this place, outside the range of the British artillery. The Boer shelling is not doing any damage. The enemy retain their positions.

Gen. Hamilton, by reaching Houtney, after a full day's fighting, secured the Thaba N'Chu-Bloemfontein road.

North Carolina Republicans.

Raleigh, N. C., May 3.—The republican state convention nominated the following ticket: For governor, Spencer B. Adams; lieutenant governor, Claudius Dockery; state treasurer, L. L. Jenkins; secretary of state, J. F. Parrott; state auditor, Thos. S. Rollins; attorney general, Z. V. Walser; superintendent of public instruction, N. C. English; commissioner of agriculture, Abner B. Alexander; commissioner of labor, Thos. S. Malloy. Delegates to the national convention: J. C. Pritchard, James E. Boyd, E. C. Duncan and Chas. McNamee, all white. They were instructed for McKinley and Pritchard.

Voted for Good Roads.

Laporte, Ind., May 3.—The voters of Michigan, Springfield and Cool Spring townships, this county, have approved the project to expend $70,000 in the building of gravel roads, and the construction of the new roadways will be begun at once.

Big Gold Shipment.

New York, May 3.—The steamer Bretagne, sailing for France on Thursday, will carry $250,000 gold shipped by the National City bank. There is talk of $2,500,000 more being shipped.

SOME Kentucky editors seem to be running their papers "as Annanias would do."

Two Mormon elders are distributing tracts in Richmond. They ought to be distributing tracts from Richmond.

It is a remarkable coincidence that conventions, reunions and association meetings always name dates during the strawberry and Spring chicken period.

Hon. W. J. Bryan has ridden the goat into Elkhorn, becoming one of the "Best People On Earth." He will be elected Grand Exalted Ruler of the White House in November.

Political Topics.

Hon. John R. Allen speaks at the court house in this city Monday afternoon.

Hon. South Trimble, the Democratic Committeeman for this district, has issued a call for a meeting of the District Committee in Frankfort May 5th, for the purpose of selecting the time and manner of nominating a candidate for Congress.

The Ninth district Republican convention, at Catlettsburg, Wednesday re-nominated the Hon. S. J. Pugh for Congress, and elected George W. Armstrong and Horace J. Cochran delegates to the National Convention. The Ninth district Democrats will hold their convention at Catlettsburg June 6.

Mr. Bryan At Columbus.

Col. W. J. Bryan Tuesday night addressed an audience of 10,000 people in the Columbus Auditorium. The crowd was one of the largest ever assembled in the hall. Congressman Lentz presided at the meeting. Col. Bryan discussed the money question, imperialism and trusts. Later, by invitation, Mr. Bryan attended a banquet given by the Columbus Board of Trade.

Kentucky vs. Ohio.

THERE will be a very interesting shooting match on the grounds of the Cincinnati Gun Club Monday between teams representing Ohio and Kentucky. The teams will be composed of 10 men on a side.

Mr. Emile Pragoff, of Louisville, Ky., is Captain of the Kentucky team, and Mr. Milt F. Lindsley, of Cincinnati, Captain of the Ohio team. Messrs. J. Q. Ward, G. W. Clay and T. H. Clay, Jr., will shoot with the Kentucky team.

The conditions of the above match are 15 birds per man, the first match, as stated above, to be shot at the grounds of the Cincinnati Gun Club on May 7, and the second match on the grounds of the Kentucky Gun Club at Louisville, Ky., May 12.

The School Tournament.

(Winchester Sun.)

The Bluegrass Graded School Tournament will be held in this city May 24, 25 and 26. It is expected there will be between four and five hundred pupils and visitors in our city during the three days. The eleven teachers in the city schools have been appointed a committee of entertainment and to secure homes for the pupils and visitors, each having a portion of the city to canvass. It is the desire of the committee to secure homes for all and make the affair a success worthy of our people, as other cities have done.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Oscar Farmer, mother of Miss Lucy Farmer, who is well known in this city, died Wednesday at her home in Louisville. The remains were interred yesterday in the Frankfort cemetery.

Knights Templar Conclave.

THE FARM AND TURF.

News For the Farmer, Trader and Stock Raiser.

J. W. Thomas, Jr., sold in Cincinnati last week seven hds. of tobacco at $15.75 to $13 and six at $14 to $10.25.

Turney Bros.' two year old colt Bowen, by Wavegus—Hindoogan, won a $400 selling purse Monday at the Aqueduct track, at six to one. Their filly Annice ran second the same day in another race.

Woodford & Buckner's Pink Coat and Talbott Bros.' John Bright will be starters in the Turf Congress Handicap to-morrow at Louisville. The stake will be worth $3,500.

W. C. Whitney has this week bought from John Madden the three year old colt Kilmarnock, for $20,000. Kilmarnock was raised at Runnymede Stock Farm, and was last season owned by Clay Bros., who sold him for $5,000. The colt worked a mile, with 116 pounds up, in 1:40 3/4 over a slow track.

The Ky. Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington Ky., has received a quantity of sugar beet seed from the Department of Agriculture at Washington, and would be glad to send them to any person in the State who is interested in sugar beets. They will be sent free to all who make applications as long as the supply lasts. Address, M. A. Scovell, Director, Lexington, Ky.

The Confederate Reunion.

During the Confederate reunion Louisville will be the rendezvous for many heroes. Five Lieutenant Generals of the Confederacy will be here. They are Gen. John B. Gordon, Gen. Jo Wheeler, Gen. Stephen D. Lee, Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner and Gen. Wade Hampton. Atlanta will send 1,000 veterans to the reunion. Headquarters for the delegation will be secured this week.

One of the interesting delegations to the reunion will be Company A of the Memphis Camp of Veterans. It will come sixty strong and each member will carry the old musket he shouldered during the civil war. The company will be handsomely uniformed and will present a fine appearance in the great parade.

The Spring meeting of the Federation of Culture Clubs of Paris will be held at the residence of Mrs. Camilla Wilson on Friday evening, May 4th, at eight o'clock. The program is all timely entertaining matter.

The barber shops in Paris will all be closed on Sunday in the future, by order of Mayor Perry. Crawford Bros. shop offers the best and quickest service in the city. Excellent bath service in connection with polite attendant.

ATTENTION is called to the advertisement "Notice To The Public" which appears in another column. This was one of the last official acts of Judge Purnell, and in his zeal for the protection of the citizens and the business interests he desired it to have a wide circulation.

The members of the Bourbon Fiscal Court are respectfully requested to meet at the Court House on Saturday, May 5, 1900, at 9 o'clock, a. m., for the purpose of attending the funeral of Hon. W. M. Purnell.

DENIS DUNDON,
County Attorney.

MR. ROBERT HAZELRIGG, proprietor of Olympian Springs, was in the city Wednesday on a business trip. He has engaged Mrs. Ollie Spears, of this city, to assist him in the management of the hotel at the Springs. He has made an excellent selection. The hotel will open on May 30th.

Judge W. M. Purnell Killed.

The citizens of Paris and Bourbon county were shocked Wednesday evening to hear that Judge W. M. Purnell, who had been seen on the streets of Paris after five o'clock that afternoon in the full vigor of health, had been accidentally killed.

Judge Purnell and wife had driven to George Prather's, a short distance from town, to secure some plants, and in returning a bolt lost out of the shaft of their phaeton, letting the shaft drop to the ground. This frightened the horse which began to plunge and kick. Judge Purnell, in trying to stop the horse from running down a dangerous grade to the creek, turned the horse into a fence. The collision threw Judge Purnell and wife out of the vehicle, the Judge's head striking the fence, crushing his skull and breaking his neck, causing instant death. Mrs. Purnell was considerably bruised. The accident happened near the railroad crossing on the Easton Ford pike, about one mile from Paris. The remains were brought home by the Davis ambulance.

Judge Purnell was fifty-four years old, and is survived by his wife and four children—Mrs. J. N. Baker, of Fulton, Mo., Mrs. J. J. Payne, Lytleton B. Purnell and Miss Jennie Kate Purnell. The latter will arrive to-day from Baltimore where she has been attending Peabody Musical Institute. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Emma Hutchinson.

Judge Purnell was born at Snow Hill, Maryland, and studied law at Cambridge, Mass. He came to Kentucky about thirty-five years ago, and was married to Miss Mattie Purnell at Millersburg about thirty years ago. Shortly afterwards he taught school at Brooksville, Bracken county, then coming to Paris. He had been an able member of the Bourbon bar for many years, and served one term as Mayor of Paris. In 1897 he was elected County Judge of Bourbon, which office he has filled most acceptably. Judge Purnell made an excellent Mayor and as County Judge was faithful, conscientious, impartial, economical and dignified. He was a member of the Episcopal Church and had served as vestryman.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at the Episcopal Church, the services to be conducted by Rev. J. S. Meredith. The remains will be interred at the Paris cemetery. The active pallbearers will be Judge Russell Mann, Judge H. C. Howard, John S. Smith, E. M. Dickson, R. C. Talbot, Harmon Stitt, Clifton Arnsperger, Neville Fisher. The members of the Fiscal Court will be honorary pallbearers.

Judge Purnell's death was a shock to every citizen of Bourbon, without regard to color or political belief, and deep sympathy is extended to his family.

Boy's Narrow Escape.

JIMMIE WARD, the sixteen year old son of James Ward, had a miraculous escape from being killed Wednesday morning while driving a cart. He was trying to back a loaded cart up to a dump on Houston avenue when it went over a twelve foot embankment. Both cart and horse fell on the boy but he escaped with only a slightly sprained back.

Lieut. Gibson Won.

The Kentucky Derby was won yesterday by Lieut. Gibson, Florizor second, Thrive third. Time, 2:06 1/4, which breaks the track record at Louisville. The race was worth $7,000. The winner was the favorite, and is owned by Charles H. Smith, of Chicago.

Bourbon Marble & Granite Works

The result of good work has made us a standing advertisement that can be seen in nearly every cemetery in Central Kentucky. Irresponsible dealers can sell you inferior material of poor design. We do not care to cater to that class of trade. W. A. HILL, Prop.

Bourbon Bar Meeting.

The Bourbon Bar held a meeting yesterday afternoon at two o'clock to take action regarding the death of Judge W. M. Purnell. Judge Mann was made Chairman and Denis Dundon was selected Secretary. Judge Mann stated that the family requested the active pallbearers to be selected from the members of the Bar, and that the Fiscal Court should act as honorary pallbearers.

The committee appointed to prepare resolutions of respect will report to-morrow morning at nine o'clock.

The Fiscal Court will also meet to-morrow morning at nine o'clock to pass resolutions.

Mr. Rassenfoss visited London, Paris, Rotterdam, Frankfurt, Cologne and Munich. He started to tour Italy but was taken ill at Munich and had to return to his home on the Rhine. He says that the Paris Exposition is yet in a very incomplete state and will hardly be in full blast for six weeks. Mr. Rassenfoss found very few English speaking people in Paris, only one of eighty waiters in an Exposition restaurant where he dined, speaking English. He had a rough voyage over, but had a fine return trip.

They Saw The Derby.

Messrs. Catesby Woodford, Buckner Woodford, R. K. McCarney, G. B. Brooks, W. R. Hukill, Edgar Hill, Sidney G. Clay, Duncan Bell, Milt Abner and several others from Paris went to Louisville yesterday morning to see the twenty-sixth Kentucky Derby run.

Knight Templar Events.

Coer de Lion Commandery No. 26, of this city, held a special meeting Wednesday afternoon and evening to confer the order of Knight of Red Cross upon John S. Smith, A. Detwiller, C. M. Thomas, E. M. Dickson, J. Ed. Price, John A. Gilkey, Henry C. Smith, W. W. Mitchell, and Dr. Frank Fithian. The Knight Templar degree was conferred on Henry C. Smith, J. Ed. Price, John S. Smith, A. Detwiller and John A. Gilkey.

Sir Knights Hanson Peterson, O. Kennard, A. P. Gooding, J. T. Hedges, W. T. Lafferty, M. S. McKee, of Cynthiana, J. G. Allen and Dr. W. M. Miller, of Millersburg, were in attendance to witness the work.

At six o'clock the Commandery and the visiting Sir Knights assembled at the splendid supper spread by Landlord Daniel Connors. The menu, which was arranged by Miss Josie Cronan, contained all of the delicacies of the season, with a dash of champagne, and the guests did ample justice to it.

E. K. THOMAS bought five acres of land in Thompson's addition, at Winchester, at $128 per acre.

A POLICY in the strongest insurance company is not more secure than the guarantee given by Harding & Riehm on all pianos and organs sold by them, both as to quality and price.

MRS. JOHN FAULKNER, of near this city, was tried Wednesday morning before Judge Purnell for lunacy and was found to be of unsound mind. She was taken to the asylum at Lexington.

COMMUNION services will be held at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. The usual preparatory services will be held Saturday morning at half-past ten o'clock.

A SMALL blaze in Miss Mattie Cheshire's stable, in rear of her residence on High street, caused an alarm of fire Wednesday afternoon at 3:30. The fire was extinguished with a sprinkling hose before the department arrived.

BOURBON CIRCUIT COURT.

David Kennedy's Administratrix, Pl'tf. vs. The Citizens Building & Savings Association of Bourbon County, Ky., etc., Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment of the Bourbon Circuit Court made and entered in the above styled cause on the 30th day of March, 1900, I will sell publicly at the Court House door in Paris, Kentucky, on at about the hour of 11 o'clock a. m., the following described real estate, to-wit: A tract of land lying in Bourbon County, Ky., containing 20 acres, lying on the road leading from Paris to Ruddles Mills and bounded as follows:

MONDAY, MAY 7TH, 1900,

Beginning at a stone corner to David Kennedy on the E. side of said road and running with the E. edge of the road N. 41 2/3 P. to Current's corner near the roots of a sugar tree; thence S. 88 1/2 E. 73.52 P. to a stone corner to Horace Miller; thence S. 45 1/2 P. to the beginning. Said land lies upon the waters of Stoner and is the same tract conveyed to said Kennedy by Horace Miller.

Said sale will be made upon a credit of six and twelve months for equal parts of the purchase money, for which the purchaser will be required to execute bond with good surety to be approved by the undersigned Master Commissioner and payable to said Commissioner, and bearing interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum from date until paid, said bonds to have the force and effect of a judgment.

Said sale is made to satisfy a judgment in favor of Wm. Myall for the sum of $1010.50, with interest from January 1st, 1895, amounting, principal and interest, on day of sale to the sum of $1334.87 and the costs of this suit, to-wit, about $80, making the total sum to be raised on the day of sale the sum of $1,414.87.

Men's and Boys' Suits

Clothes that any best clothing store is glad to show its most particular customers. Stylish, proper cut, well tailored, dependable. We take great pride in showing our present stock of Men's and Boys' Suits, not only on account of the correct fit, the workman-like finish, the perfect linings, the close set of the collar at neck, but in the hidden details of making that tell in the wear. It's these details of making that keeps our clothing shapely when no longer new.

The Deadly Parallel of Comparison of Prices and qualities will prove to you that these Suits at $6, $7.50, $10, $12.50, $15, $17.50 and $20 cannot be equalled in this city for the money. We want you to consider the prices and weigh them well, then investigate the remarkable worth they represent. One fact is especially entitled to your consideration, and that is the utter absence of unworthy goods. We offer none that we cannot conscientiously recommend as the very best in the grade they represent.

PARKER & JAMES,

Fourth and Main.

If you cannot read this small print at a distance of 14 inches your eyesight is failing and should have immediate attention:

Imperial spectacles and eyeglasses have perfect lenses, always perfectly centred and made of purest material, set in frames of the highest elasticity and consequently of greatest durability, united with the utmost lightness and elegance. When both frames and lenses are scientifically fitted by Dr. C. H. Bowen's system they always give satisfaction for they are perfect. Never buy cheap spectacles, nor of men who do not know how to fit them. You will get poorly adjusted spectacles, or poor, imperfect lenses, and are better off without any glasses than with either of these defects. Buy Imperial spectacles of a reliable skillful dealer, and they will last longer without change and be cheapest in the end.

We have engaged the services of Dr. C. H. Bowen who will visit our store on the second and last Thursdays of each month and invite all to call and have their eyes examined, for which there is no charge. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Next visit—Thursday, May 10, 1900. Hello, 170.

Before Marriage Everything Is Sweet and Lovely, After We Get Down to Earth Again.

"George, dear," she said, a night or two before the wedding, according to Tit-Bits, "do you think it possible that our love and our married life can become the common-place, coldly practical love and life of the married people we see around us? Oh, George, my heart would break if I thought so."

"But it will not be so," said George, passionately. "We love each other too tenderly, too fondly for that. Our love is not of the ordinary kind, my darling, and our lives will not be so. Ah, no, my angel; that can never be."

THE POET'S GRIEVANCE.

His Lines Were Badly Treated by the Printer and He Was Justly
Indignant.

The editor was sitting in his office one day when a man whose brow was clothed with thunder entered. Fiercely seizing a chair, he slammed his hat on the table, hurled his umbrella on the floor and sat down, says Collier's Weekly.

"Are you the editor?" he asked.
"Yes."
"Can you read writing?"
"Of course."
"Read that, then," he said, thrusting at the editor an envelope with an inscription on it.
"B—" said the editor, trying to spell it.
"That's not a B—it's an S," said the man.
"S—oh, yes, I see. Well, it looks like 'Salt for Dinner,' or 'Souls of Sinners.'"
"No, sir," replied the man, "nothing of the kind. That's my name—Samuel H. Brunner. I knew you couldn't read. Called to see you about that poem of mine you printed the other day on the 'Surcease of Sorrow.'"
"Don't remember it."

"Of course you don't, because it went into the paper underneath the infamous title of 'Smearcase to-morrow.'"
The editor fled.
British Aristocracy Blamed.
Many people attribute the recent reverses of the British to the degeneracy of the aristocracy. The life of luxury certainly does not produce vigor. Indigestible suppers, late hours, constant nerve strain and lack of exercise upset the stomach and weaken both physical and mental vitality. The blood that makes men heroes must come from active, healthy stomachs. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters purifies the blood and strengthens the stomach. It cures constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia and biliousness.

Much Like Demosthenes.
"Woman," he said, "really ought to be a better orator than man."
"Why so?" she asked.
"Because," he replied, "to a certain extent at least she follows the methods of that famed orator, Demosthenes."
"In what way?" she inquired, still busy with the finishing touches of her toilet.
"You remember," he answered, "that Demosthenes used to practice talking with his mouth full of pebbles?"
She hastily took the pins out of her mouth and informed him that he was a mean old thing anyway.—Chicago Post.

THE OLD UNFINISHED CHAMBER

The old "unfinished chamber"—
I shut my eyes and see
The massive, smoke-brown raft
Each hewn from some huge tree;
No medieval castle
E'er boasted ribs more stout;
No wildest wind of winter
Could shake them with its rout.
And yet they condescended
To yield ungrudging support
To traces trim of popcorn
For winter evenings' sport;

To festoon a wealth of apple,
And wrinkled rings galore
Of prophetic pumpkin,
And grandma's treasured store
Of peppermint and spearmint,
Skull-cap and sage and dill,
Wormwood and balm and catnip—
Sure cure for every ill.
Small need we had of doctors!
At slightest hint of pain
Came grandma with her herb-drink
And we were well again.

I see the huge old chimney,
Up which the wood fire roared,
On every side surrounded
By all our childish hoard
Of hazelnuts and beechnuts,
Gathered in golden days,
While saucy chipmunks scolded,
And all the woodland ways
Were gay in gold and scarlet,
And all the air was sweet
With breath of glorious autumn.
Whose wealth was at our feet.

I see the small-paned windows
That, in a winter's night,
Would win to wondrous beauty
Of tracery azure-white.
Scenes of the sunny south land,
With towering tropic trees,
Pictures of polar regions
And iceberg-haunted seas,
All that we read and dreamed of,
That travelers' tales rehearse,
We saw in our still corner
Of the great universe.

Then, when the days grew longer
And weak the winter's chains,
From some dim, dreaming cranny
Out on the sunny panes
Big, sleepy flies crept staidly.
With dazed, bewildered mien,
As though they scarce remembered
The once familiar scene.
But when, by sunshine awakened,
They raised their cheery hum,
We knew that they were telling
"For true" that spring was come.

Ah, dreamy, blissful memories
Of dear, dim rainy days!
We could not "go a-fishing,"
And all our outdoor plays
Were set aside. What cared we?
We knew the latch-string stout
Of the old "unfinished chamber"
Was always hanging out.
What frolics 'neath the rafters!
What masquerading fine
In garments worn and faded,
Fashioned in "auld lang syne!"
What happy-hearted laughter,
What songs untouched by pain,
Blent with the obligato
Unceasing of the rain!

Dear old unfinished chamber!
No palace fairer seems—
None to my heart is nearer
In all the land of dreams.
—Minnie L. Upton, in Orange Judd Farmer.

Mr. Jobson Goes Fishing

"MRS. JOBSON," said Mr. Jobson, after he had finished reading the paper on Saturday evening, "what would you rather do or go a-fishin'?"

Mrs. Jobson wasn't familiar with the phrase, and she had to pass.

"Yes, I am sane," went on Mr. Jobson, observing Mrs. Jobson's puzzled look. "You are liable to railroad me across the eastern branch to the big government institution sooner or later, Mrs. Jobson, but I'm sane, all right. Here's what I mean: This is the beautiful spring season. Therefore it is the foolish season for fish. Fish bite in spring in the upper Potomac. Likewise, nature is now assuming her loveliest robes. I propose that we get a skiff to-morrow morning, row ten or 12 miles up the upper Potomac, drink in the beauty of the unfolding leafage, and catch a barrel of fish. I'll do the rowing."

Mrs. Jobson kept at her homiton lace work very industriously.

"Aren't you afraid there might be some danger in rowing now that you have grown so stout, and—" she began after a pause.

"Oh, that's it," interrupted Mr. Jobson. "You are of the opinion that it is my purpose to get you in a boat, pull her out to the middle of the river and scuttle her; or else you think that I don't know any more about rowing than I do of the Higher and Nobler—one or the other. Mrs. Jobson, I never won any diamond skulls for rowing, and I don't pretend that I can beat a Norfolk boat down to Old Point in an outrigger; but I can row, Mrs. Jobson, you don't want to let that fact get away from you; I can row, all right. And I can fish, too. And when you're throwing out jibes about people getting stout and puffy and things like that, permit me to remind you that the passing of the years is not leaving you exactly so sylph-like as you were when I came along and rescued you from single blessedness. I may not be quite so Slim Jimmy and quick on my pins as I was a couple of years ago, but if I can't pull the both of us up to where the falls break on the upper Potomac, without taking a long breath, and then turn against the tide, you can present my name for membership in the Fat Men's club, that's all."

Thus it came about that shortly after nine o'clock on Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Jobson, with a plethoric basket of lunch, appeared at the foot of one of the Georgetown streets, where Mr. Jobson rented lines and sinkers and bought enough bait to fit out a Gloucester fishing smack for the Great Banks, and negotiated for a boat.

"I don't want any of your tubs," said Mr. Jobson to the boatman. "Gimme a shipshape looking craft, that's got some style about it—none of these here clumsy outfits that look like Dutch frigates in a gale of wind."

"Well, I've some nice outriggers," said the boatman, looking Mr. Jobson over out of the tail of his eye, "out they're a bit hard to manage, if you ain't used to 'em, and—"

"Are, hey?" said Mr. Jobson. "Well, there's any one thing that I can the right oar into the water as if it was an oyster tong, and fanned the air with the left. The boat careened to the right, and Mrs. Jobson emitted a little scream of alarm. Mr. Jobson glared at her. Then he dug the left oar into the water, as if it was trying to make a sounding at that particular spot, while he wielded the right oar as if it were a cricket bat. The boat was listed to the left, and again Mrs. Jobson emitted a little scream of fear, holding on tight. Mr. Jobson glared at her some more, pulled out his handkerchief and mopped his face, and said deep things in his throat.

"This darned machine is out of order," said he, "or else you have put a job on me with the boatman, Mrs. Jobson. I suppose you came over here late last night and fixed it all up with him—arranged it so that we should both be dumped near the dock, and the boatman is to rescue you and let me go to the bottom. Then you collect my insurance money, pay your accessory in the crime, and—"

"Hey, there!" yelled the boatman; "catch this line, will you?"

Mr. Jobson caught the line the boatman threw him, and the outrigger was pulled back to the float.

"They're a bit hard to manage, as I told you," said the boatman. "Don't you think a plain skiff is what you want?"

Mr. Jobson regarded the boatman and Mrs. Jobson savagely.

"What I want," he said, "is some kind of a boat that will go through the water—not a machine that is purposely cranked up and fixed for the purpose of sending people who try to row it to a watery grave. If you've got that kind of a boat haul it out; that's all."

The boatman deposited Mr. and Mrs. Jobson in a safe-looking skiff of the flat-bottomed kind, handed Mr. Jobson the oars, and this time Mr. Jobson contrived to get the boat away from the float without catching more than half a dozen crabs. The tide was running out, and by the time Mr. Jobson had pulled the skiff half-way across the stream he began to pant and snort and puff like a small steam tug pulling an ocean steamship. The boat meanwhile was rapidly going down stream with the tide. Mr. Jobson mopped his perspiring face and gazed coldly at Mrs. Jobson, who was hanging on to the gun's with a pale countenance.

"You just did this to humiliate me, didn't you, madam?" said Mr. Jobson, picking up the oars and pulling hard for the opposite shore. "It's just pie for you to have your husband made to look cheap in the eyes of the riff-raff, isn't it?"

"I'm sure I don't know what you—"

"Oh, no; you don't know anything about it," snorted Mr. Jobson. "You didn't rock that outrigger with your two hands so it wouldn't work as soon as I began to row in it, did you? And you didn't wink to that boatman to pick out the heaviest tub of a galleon that ever crawled through the water to make it appear that I was shy in rowing ability, did you?"

"Mr. Jobson, we'll go down to the Long bridge soon if you don't take the boat further up the stream," said Mrs. Jobson, noticing the rapid drift of the skiff downstream, "and then—"

"Let 'er drift out to sea, madam," said Mr. Jobson, in a tone of deadly coldness; "it would serve you right for forming an alliance with a murderous boatman to—"

Then Mr. Jobson went at the oars, and by dint of tremendous effort he managed to fetch up on the Virginia side, on the edge of a grass marsh, about half a mile below the point whence they started. There he threw out his line, and Mrs. Jobson threw out her line, and at the end of an hour's fishing Mr. Jobson had caught four nice little perch, and Mr. Jobson hadn't got a bite. Then Mr. Jobson called a boy who was rowing near by to come over and tow the skiff back to the place where it had been hired. The boy hitched his own boat to a stake, and in eight minutes he had pulled the skiff containing Mr. and Mrs. Jobson to the float without so much as breathing hard.

"Madam," said Mr. Jobson, when they got home, about noon, logging the basketful of untouched lunch, "the next time you begin to poetize and pipe-dream about the beauteous spring leafage, and bombast me into embarking with you on an expedition in which you have conspired to take my life, I'll be elsewhere, Mrs. Jobson; I'll be elsewhere—that's all."—Washington Star.

DAN GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Peruna is an Excellent Spring
Catarrh Remedy—I am as Well as Ever."

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, of the Famous Ohio Family.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy." Very respectfully, Dan. A. Grosvenor.

Hal P. Denton, Chief National Export Exposition, Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I was completely run down from overwork and the responsibility naturally connected with the exploitation of a great international exposition. My physician recommended an extended vacation. When I seemed almost a burden I began taking Peruna, and with the use of the fifth bottle I found myself in a normal condition. I have since enjoyed the best of health."

Almost everybody needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain, and cleanse the blood. That Peruna will do this is beyond all question. Everyone who has tried it has had the same experience as Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, of Lynchburg, Va., who, in a recent letter, made use of the following words: "I always take a dose of Peruna after business hours, as it is a great thing for the nerves. There is no better spring tonic, and I have used about all of them."

Stumped the School Visitor.
A visitor at a Columbia, Mo., school the other day asked one of the lower grade class this question: "What is the axis of the earth?" "An imaginary line passing from one pole to the other, on which the earth revolves," proudly answered a pupil. "Yes," said the examiner, well pleased, "and could you hang a basket on it?" "Indeed! And what kind of a basket?" "An imaginary basket, sir." The visitor asked no more questions.—Chicago Chronicle.

ALABASTINE
LABASTINE is the original and only durable wall coating, entirely different from all kalsomines. Ready for use in white or fourteen beautiful tints by adding cold water.
ADIES naturally prefer ALABASTINE for walls and ceilings, because it is pure, clean, durable. Put up in dry powdered form, in five-pound packages, with full directions.
LL kalsomines are cheap, temporary preparations made from whitening, chalks, clays, etc., and stuck on walls with decaying animal glue. ALABASTINE is not a kalsomine.
BEWARE of the dealer who says he can sell you the "same thing" as ALABASTINE or "something just as good." He is either not posted or is trying to deceive you.
ND IN OFFERING something he has bought cheap and tries to sell on ALABASTINE's demands, he may not realize the damage you will suffer by a kalsomine on your walls.
ENSIBLE dealers will not buy a lawsuit. Dealers risk one by selling and consumers by using infringement. ALABASTINE Co. own right to make wall coating to mix with cold water.
HE INTERIOR WALLS of every church and school should be coated only with pure, durable ALABASTINE. It safeguards health. Hundreds of tons used yearly for this work.
N BUYING ALABASTINE, customers should avoid getting cheap kalsomines under different names. Insist on having our goods in packages and properly labeled.
USAGE of wall paper is obviated by ALABASTINE. It can be used on plastered walls, wood ceilings, brick chimneys, etc. A child can brush it on. It does not rub or scale off.
STABLISHED in favor. Shun all imitations. Ask paint dealer or druggist for tint card. Write us for interesting booklet, free. ALABASTINE CO., Grand Rapids, Mich.
